

Photo by: André Sorensen

Facing north at Point Rouge Trail Park

Photo by: Amaan Jabbar

Upper Rouge Trail

The Rouge Park Greenway

To learn more, check out the Rouge Park Route Profile and look for this number in the key maps.

Continue on next page

Photo by: Amaan Jabbar

Cedar Trail, which follows the Little Rouge Creek

Photo by: Amaan Jabbar

Twyn Rivers Park is currently under construction to increase public safety and accessibility.

DID YOU KNOW?

There have been recent black bear sightings in Glen Rouge Park!

Photo by: Amaan Jabbar

Glen Rouge Park is the only campgrounds in Toronto.

Photo by: Amaan Jabbar

The railway and shipping businesses at Port Union peaked in 1865 with a permanent population of over 100 residents and as many as 300 on any given business day. The growing community was granted its own post office, which survived until 1934.

Photo by: Amaan Jabbar

Map layout by: Allison Oki
Satellite images from: Google Earth

Photo by: Amaan Jabbar

In 2006, the Port Union Waterfront Trail opened. From 1849 to 1895, this was the location of the wharf built by the Scarborough, Pickering and Markham Wharf Company to facilitate Lake Ontario shipping.